ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Cheryl practices business and health care law. Her practice focuses on business and regulatory matters for physicians, physician group practices, physician networks, and ancillary facilities. She has represented physicians and physician groups in the development of practice groups and networks, structured the acquisition and sale of physician practices and ancillary facilities, and negotiated managed care contracts. She is a frequent speaker on health care law matters.

Cheryl has experience representing clients in a wide range of legal transactions including:

- Creating a network that includes physicians and hospitals for purposes of managed care contracting
- Establishing partnerships to build and operate MRI facilities
- Developing a single-specialty ophthalmology physician network
- Structuring a new ob/gyn group practice
- Representing a nephrology group in the sale of its dialysis centers

- Analyzing the health care regulatory issues related to the formation of a joint venture between a radiology physician group practice and a hospital system
- Formation of a management service organization for ob/gyn physicians.
- Preparing a private placement to raise capital for a horse racetrack facility.

Cheryl was the Health Law Columnist for the San Antonio Medical Gazette from 1991-1996 and co-authored "The Classification Dilemma: Treating Physicians as Independent Contractors" for the State Bar Section Report—Health Law (Fall 1992).
